

William Monroe Wallace

May 22, 1974 - September 16, 2024

William Monroe Wallace was born in Greenville, South Carolina. He resided with his wife of 13 years, Camille Candace Harris-Wallace in Weaverville, NC. Will passed on Monday, September 16th. He is survived by his wife Camille Candace Harris-Wallace. His Brother Franklin Wallace. His cousin Heidi who was more of a sister to him. His sister-in-law Tawnya Simmons and Tamar Warren. His nieces Gabriely Dye, Ruth Warren, and Olivia Warren. His many Aunts, Uncles, and cousins. Will was born on 22nd May 1974, His passing is preceded by his parents Franklin and Tallulah Wallace of Greenville, SC.

After growing up in SC and attending school, he worked for the United States Postal Service for 13 years, gaining a leadership position as a Lead SSA. Will's ultimate success has always been his character and kindness. Treating every person with respect and humanity. This was evident by the many relationships he cultivated with the customers and community he served. Will loved music, especially the Blues. He also cherished his wife. They were best friends. Will often said, "all I need is you my beautiful". His legacy will continue to shine through all of the lives he has touched both professionally and personally.

“ Going through everything. I came across my vows. They are as true today as they were on September 8, 2012.

*When we met something about you drew me in
I liked you instantly and so it began
A meeting of the minds
Leading to long conversations, and even longer looks
Butterflies of anticipation fluttered in my tummy
Daydreams danced in my imagination
The dream I have held is coming to fruition*

*Curling up with a cup of coffee in the early morning dawn
With pen and paper barefoot on the lawn
My heart open wide
I asked God to guide my footsteps
Only you were on my mind
Skipping along the treetops
My fingertips brushing through the clouds
God did speak to me and said this quit loud
He was created for you and you for him
My heart remained open allowing you in*

*You make my soul happy, engage my mind
I promise to be honest, always stay true
Not just to you, but to me too*

*Once I was asked what the color of love is I answered a rainbow
But that was some time ago
And this I now know
Love isn't a color; it's not even a feeling
It's deed and choices, words and laughter
It's lazy afternoons watching cartoons
It's never saying words that you can't take back
It's respect and admiration, honesty and trust*

*Honestly love is so much fun it's easy and slow or fast like a run
Love is you without question
It's standing in God's house before family and friends
Saying loud and clear
You are my compliment in every way
You make my life joyful in the living each and every day
I love you today and for all of my days that follow
I choose you William Monroe Wallace
And you alone
Because in loving you
I found my home*

I miss you baby

*Oh Camille, I'm truly deeply sorry for your (and the universes) loss. Not sure if you remember me, we met only a few times (a record show downtown and at the Ingles gas station too). Will and I had such lovely talks. I'd stop by the P.O. and he'd follow me to the lobby if it wasn't too busy and we'd talk about a show you two saw, or a gig I had that week, or a movie or book.
My heart hurts for you and your family. Keeping you in my thoughts xx*

“ Oh Brother Will...

My heart hurts so much. I was a customer for many years, but we became friends as well. We just spoke less than 2 weeks ago about music and the future. He had lofty plans and always had questions about my gigs and music as well as documentaries and books. I loved this guy and am so sad our paths won't cross again, at least in the here and now. My sincerest condolences to his family and friends. I miss you bud xx

“ Will and I were great friends from the early days (as you can see this pic is from high school graduation). We were young and just figuring out life and the world and our place in it. We created so many memories from such a small point of time in retrospect. As time went on, we tried to keep in touch and it saddens me to think of all the time we missed. I’m also sad to say that I never got the chance to meet his beautiful wife Camille. I know for sure he found the love of his life and as happy as he always was....he was never happier than when he found you. One thing was always apparent. Will loved with his whole heart. He loved people, music, food, and anything the world threw at him. I’m pretty sure he will always be convinced that he invented microwaving a pizza, putting Mac and cheese on it, and folding it like a taco (a staple snack we liked to eat after our late night hangs).

The world was, is and always will be a better place with him in it. I’m sad to say I cant get to Asheville to celebrate with you all. But I can guarantee I’ll be celebrating him with you in spirit. All my love and deepest sympathies to Camille, his family and all of his friends who were lucky enough to have had him in their life. No matter how long.

“ Will was a lovely person indeed. He was funny, kind, respectful and a gentle, beautiful soul that I will never forget. Few in life touch one's heart as he did.

“ Will and I met in Charlotte, NC going to see an Elvis Costello concert. Our mutual friend Jon had asked me last minute to go with him. Little did I know that his childhood friends believed that I was the girl Jon had just stopped dating. Hence the extra ticket. We went to a little clothing store and Will tried on this leather Jacket. It was then that my interest was piqued. We sat outside of a little head shop and talked for a while. It was then I was a little more than interested. Finally, we went to a party prior to the concert. I was flirting with our friend Jon after finding out that everyone thought we were dating and wouldn't it be so funny to pretend to be his girlfriend. lol. The next thing I knew everything I mentioned wanting to eat or drink, kept magically appearing in front of me. I realized on the drive home that Will would be significant in my life, and he was. I shamelessly flirted with him on FB since we lived in different states. I got his number from Jon and finally called him one night and said that I was getting hit on by some fool in the bar and I wished it was him I was talking to. From that moment on the start of the most magnificent love I have ever know began. My Hubs is my best friend. Our marriage was not perfect, but we were perfect for each other. I will continue to love and cherish him until my last breath. As we always said to each other for the next 4,000 years baby.
